Safety and Certifications

Unauthorized Lightning™ cables or accessories that are not genuine Apple or MFI products, cause devices to show a warning message, "This cable or accessory is not certified and may not work reliably with this iPhone." In the near future, Apple may completely shut out these non-genuine charging cords from working with their devices.

GetPower is a certified and genuine MFI partner with Apple. With GetPower's Lightning™ tipped cords, you will never have to worry about getting stuck with a non-working, non-approved, or error causing cord. GetPower's packaging for its Lightning™ products, has to go through a rigorous approval process with Apple before allowing to be placed into production yet alone onto market shelves.

GetPower believes in upholding and/or exceeding all OEM (Original Equipment Manufacturer) phone standards with its products. GetPower makes universal cellular accessories for phones with quality and safety as a number one priority. GetPower will not skimp on technology, power output, or safety measures just to be able to provide the lowest pricing on the market (i.e GetPower plugs will not "get hot", they have no RF/radio interference or feedback). GetPower also understands the growing power demands and needs for smartphones and tablets in the market, and ensures that all its products will charge your devices efficiently. With quality products comes satisfied and happy customers.
