Ear Care

Routine examination of ear canals, flaps and surrounding tissues — especially in long-eared dogs — is important for pet health. Some breeds have a genetic tendency to build up ear wax within the canals or around the opening that can impair circulation leading to discomfort and even infection. Weekly inspections and cleansing will help clean and deodorize ears.

Protective Collars

A comfortable alternative to large, conical Elizabethan Collars (E-Collars) that most veterinary offices provide following surgery or to thwart a pet from licking or biting parts of his body. Rigid E-Collars have been used for years by veterinarians, but they limit a dog's ability to eat, drink and sleep and are quite uncomfortable to wear. They can also damage furniture and walls.

Health Care Products for Cats

The anatomy and physiology of cats are quite unique. They are obligate carnivores and have difficulty digesting plant matter, can hear higher-pitched sounds than dogs and have an acute sense of smell, as well as dozens of movable whiskers over their body to help with navigation and sensation. Each Nutri-Vet feline health product has been formulated with this very unique species in mind.

Nutri-Vet[®] was acquired by the Beefeaters Holding Company Inc, owner of Beefeaters[®] and PetraVet[®] brands in August 2011. The acquisition brought together companies with well established brands, innovative products and extensive management experience to provide pet owners a wide selection of world-class animal wellness products and treats. The new entity expands Nutri-Vet's vision of growth and commitment to animal health while increasing brand awareness across multiple product categories.

Beefeaters[®] has offered a wide variety of healthy treats in unique sizes, shapes and textures for dogs of all ages since 1986. Every Beefeaters' treat is rich in protein and oven baked to seal in flavor. The natural treats provide superior quality ingredients made without preservatives, additives, fillers, artificial colors or flavors. A full menu of healthy treats like Chicken Tops, Hybrid Treats and Sweet Potato Snacks and Freeze Dried Snacks assure pet owners that they can offer their dogs a wide variety of delicious tasting treats.
