EAR AND EYE CARE

Routine examination of ear canals, flaps and surrounding tissues — especially in long-eared dogs — is important for pet health. Some breeds have a genetic tendency to build up ear wax within the canals or around the opening that can impair circulation leading to discomfort and even infection.

Examining the eyes is also important. 40% of pets in the US have eye disorders such as cataracts, Keratitis sicca (Dry Eye Syndrome) and Nuclear sclerosis. Keeping eyes clean from dirt and debris is important to eye health.

EAR CLEANSE is an antimicrobial, antiseptic cleanser scientifically formulated to remove wax and dirt and deodorize ear canals.
